ANNIE JR. DIRECTOR'S NOTE:

There is no better message for our very first Zoomusical than, "the sun'll come out tomorrow". This optimistic show preaches the importance of finding things to be hopeful about, even when that feels impossible. Over the past five weeks, we have done just that. We have stayed positive and hopeful, realizing that we can continue the magic of theater, even from our own bedrooms.

Every single rehearsal I am impressed and refreshed with the amount of talent, dedication, humor, passion for theater, and overall joy within each performer. Even though right now feels like a "hard knock life", these actors have managed to find the light in the darkness, and continue performing from home with the same energy as when they performed together on stage.

Please enjoy, and take advantage of the ability to share this show with your friends!

Kylie Frame, Director

Upcoming!

Seuss Stories: Characters Come To Life!

Happy National Reading Month! Let's celebrate our love of reading with a storytime adventure, led by the Throckmorton Youth Theater Ensemble. Our group of young performers have brought some of your favorite Dr. Seuss children's stories to the Zoom screen, and want to share them with you!

Check out our website at www.throckmortontheatre.org starting March 1st to view our ready-to-go Stories, narrated by a cast of colorful characters.
